Participants will be given a web link to view the content and a telephone number to dial into to listen and participate in the audio portion. Training is interactive for classes with opportunity to ask questions and interact with other participants.

Advantages of a fixed cost contract

Continuous and Systematic Training–

After initial implementation training is often minimized at the expense of utilization of your software investment. With web based training there is a continuous opportunity to learn about how to make the most of software features.

Cost savings –

Obtain a wide variety of training at a significant cost savings over on-site training.
